SPECIFICITIES OF THE POLISH MEAT SECTO
Krystyna Rejman, Ewa Halicka, Barbara Kowrygo

Abstract
The meat sector in Poland is very fragmented, with low level of horizontal integration, high cost of breeding and relative low quality (high fat content). It indicates a severe decline in beef consumption, accompanied by a dynamic growth in poultry and stabilization in pork consumption. The main exported processed meat product is sausage, poultry (Russia), geese (EU) and turkeys.

Key words: red meat product; poultry product; Poland; industrial slaughtering; export
